

Online Communities Guide

The online communities platform was created to facilitate the sharing of best practices and for chapter executive members to connect across the country.

The forums are organized by chapter executive position to help facilitate discussion around chapter operations. The communities can be accessed through the links below. Please note that you will need to be signed into the CSSE website in your browsers prior to accessing the link to gain entry.

Chapter Chairs

This forum is an online community intended to be a space for chapter chairs to connect, share best practices and brainstorm with CSSE chapters across the country.

Chapter Secretaries

This forum is an online community intended to be a space for chapter secretaries to connect, share best practices and brainstorm with CSSE chapters across the country.

Chapter Treasurers

This forum is an online community intended to be a space for chapter treasurers to connect, share best practices and brainstorm with CSSE chapters across the country.

Chapter Past Chairs

This forum is an online community intended to be a space for chapter past chairs to connect, share best practices and brainstorm with CSSE chapters across the country.

Code of Conduct

Communities are here to provide you with a friendly environment where you can discuss ideas, give advice, and converse with fellow members. They are at their best when participants treat their fellow posters with respect and courtesy. CSSE shall have full discretion to address any behavior that they feel is inappropriate and reserves the right to suspend your access at any time. The communities are for discussion of topics directly related to chapter operations and the chapter executive positions. Any posts deemed irrelevant are subject to deletion.

There will be no use of the following:

- profanity
- advertising
- trolling — deliberate offensive/provocative post to upset someone or elicit an angry response
- spamming — send the same message multiple times
- racial, ethnic, gender based insults or any other personal discriminations